Khrush Tells West To Keep Out Of Congo

Soviet Will Give Republic All Help That Is Necessary

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned the West Friday to keep hands off the Congo.

Repeating his charge that the faltering new nation is a target of imperialist aggression, Khrushchev declared the Soviet Union will take resolute countermeasures if this continues.

"The demand of the Soviet Union is simple—hands off the Republic of the Congo!" he said in a message to Congo President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba.

"The government of the Congo can be assured that the Soviet government will give the Congo Republic the necessary help which may be required for the victory of your just cause."

Khrushchev did not say what he meant by "necessary help."

Can Claim Victory

As in similar statements concerning Suez and Cuba, this left the Kremlin in a position to claim a victory no matter which way the situation goes.

In 1956 the Soviet Union threatened to send "volunteers" to fight for Egypt unless Britain, France and Israel broke off an invasion of Egypt. That fighting ended after the United States also condemned the attacks.

Last Saturday Khrushchev pledged support for Cuba and received himself a "hands off" warning from the United States, which said action by international communism in the Western Hemisphere could not be tolerated.

An almost daily series of Khrushchev speeches, notes and declarations must be creating an impression among Soviet newspaper readers that Western nations headed by the United States are rushing hell-bent toward an aggressive war.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Friday's Congo message responded to a Kasavubu-Lumumba telegram complaining that Belgian troops have occupied Congo territory and that the lives of the two leaders are in danger.

Two Are Quoted

The two were quoted as saying: "In view of the threat created to the neutrality of the Republic of the Congo by Belgium and certain Western countries, probably we shall be compelled to ask for the Soviet Union's interference unless the Western camp discontinues the aggression."

This and the Khrushchev response were made public as a U. N. force authorized by Security Council resolution began moving into the Congo in an effort to restore order.

The Soviet charges of aggression are denied by Western authorities. Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the U. N. has called them Communist nonsense.

Belgium says its military action was forced by horrible disorders that endangered Belgian settlers. The Russians distorted "the intentions and the facts in an odious way," a Brussels statement added. West Germany declared the Soviet aim is to transform the Congo into a satellite.

Baltimore Records Drop In Crime

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore bucked a national trend last year and registered a modest drop in crime from 1958.

The Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission said Friday there were 84 murders in the city during the year, 16 less than the previous year.

A drop in auto theft cases was attributed to a police policy of stopping youthful drivers who are on the streets after certain hours. Aggravated assault also dropped while there were increases in rape, burglary and breaking and entering, robbery and larceny.

Fans Besiege Kennedy

GOP Doesn't Expect Disorder At Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—"Clear the aisles."

That plea to get out of the walking lanes and sit down was a familiar sound effect at the Democratic nominating sessions in Los Angeles.

But it won't be heard so often at the Republican National Convention in Chicago in the opinion of one of the top planners of the big GOP show.

Miss Josephine Good, executive director of the Republican convention, phrased it this way at a news conference: "I don't think we'll have the problems they had in keeping order. It isn't so big a hall and the people can't wander around so much."

She says she looks for a more compact, more orderly convention with better acoustics and transportation and more hotel space.

Miss Good, 42, a native of Denver, Colo., is a 110-pound woman who wears her blonde hair pulled straight back in the best lady-who-gets-things-done style.

Her associates say she is the first woman to fill such a job at a national major party convention. She was an assistant to the director at the 1956 convention. "Most of all," she explained, "it involves keeping track of details—and there are hundreds of them—and seeing that all runs smoothly and on time."

Among the details are badges, seats and tickets to the 12,000-seat International Amphitheatre, where the convention will open July 25 for a scheduled four-day run.

Man Rescued After Fall Into River

BALTIMORE (AP)—Eberle W. Disney, 65, of Baltimore, was rescued from the Patapsco River Friday after he fell 30 feet from Hanover Street Bridge.

Police said crew members of a small boat rescued Disney soon after he struck the water. He was reported in fair condition at a local hospital.

Italy In Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Italy moved into the final round of the European Zone Davis Cup competition for the fifth time in the last six years Friday by defeating the British in the decisive doubles 6-4, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3.

Oil-Laden Tanker Runs Aground In East River

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Panamanian tanker laden with Arabian oil was ripped open by a submerged object in the East River Friday and ran aground on rocks at the base of the United Nations headquarters skyscraper.

Oil spilled from the ship into the river in such quantities that the fire department posted no smoking signs in the area, even along the East River Drive, as a precaution against possible disaster.

Tropical Storm Hits Honduras, Blows Self Out

MIAMI (UPI)—The season's first tropical storm, hurricane Abby, struck the south coast of British Honduras Friday and blew itself out in the mountains regions of Honduras and Guatemala.

The Miami Weather Bureau called in its hurricane hunter aircraft from tracking the tight little hurricane but said a plane would check Saturday to see if Abby had reformed over the Gulf of Campeche.

In the bureau's final advisory at 12 noon e.d.t., it estimated the hurricane's center to be about 80 statute miles southwest of Belize, Honduras. The bureau said it had received no reports concerning damage or highest wind velocity.

Monitor Board Head Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Martin F. O'Donoghue, admitting frustration in his efforts to rid the big Teamsters Union of corruption, resigned Friday as chairman of the union's board of monitors.

In a letter to U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts, O'Donoghue cited both urgent personal reasons and his difficulties in trying to get any kind of action out of James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president.

O'Donoghue told the judge he will stay on only until his successor can be appointed and sworn in.

For the last two years, the board of monitors, appointed by Letts to watch over and try to clean up the truck drivers union, has served under O'Donoghue, a Washington labor lawyer.

In his letter, O'Donoghue said Hoffa and the other Teamsters officers have hamstringing him at every point with lawsuits that have brought about delay after delay.

Change Doesn't Mean Very Much

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—A move is on to change the name of Ocean Drive, site of Newport's storied summer palaces, to Eisenhower Drive in honor of the city's distinguished summer visitor.

"The trouble is," said Mayor James L. Maher, "the people will still go by the old name and the whole thing doesn't mean very much."

Youngest Daughter Is Philosopher

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's 13-year-old daughter, Lucy Baines, has been in politics long enough to be a philosopher.

She told a crowd of Texans on Friday that during a convention the news changes every few hours.

She had been writing four letters home Thursday telling of father's defeat in his bid for the presidential nomination when she learned he would be the vice presidential nominee.

"But that's life I guess," said the teenager.

Emotions Mixed Over Selection Of Johnson

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's nomination for vice president turned the Democratic National Convention into an emotional checkerboard.

It delighted most of the party leaders, dismayed many rank-and-file delegates, and brought this comment from an observer who belongs to neither group: "Kennedy will lose the South and Johnson will lose the North but the ticket ought to do all right in Hawaii and Alaska."

The mixed emotions swirled hardest on the convention floor around the standards of California, Michigan, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia. These were the centers of the "revolt" against Johnson's nomination—a revolt that died a-borning.

California was split wide open. Hours before Johnson appeared, a delegate from Berkeley began gathering signatures for a petition to caucus. Exactly what action the Californians could take, assuming they agreed on one, was never clear.

Over at the Michigan delegation the feeling was even worse.

The delegation captains were on the interim system, contacting each delegate.

"We're taking a caucus," said Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

"What about?"

"To see what the question is to caucus about," he said.

Representatives from Wisconsin and the District of Columbia kept coming to Williams. They were trying to force a movement to endorse someone else for the vice presidency.

So it went until the convention chairman, Gov. LeRoy Collins, took things in hand and called for a voice vote on the Johnson nomination.

"There was a roar of approving votes. But when Collins called for 'those opposed,' there was a roar from those against Johnson. It came mainly from the four delegations, plus the gallery where, of course, the vote doesn't count.

After the session, about 100 or more Democratic bigwigs assembled in a hotel suite.

There, the glee over the Kennedy-Johnson ticket appeared unanimous, unbounded, and unqualified.

There was a telegram to Gov. LeRoy Collins of Fla., chairman of the Democratic National Convention, Truman said "with the nomination of Sen. John F. Kennedy for president and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson for vice president, the Democratic Party must now close ranks and go to work."

The message was released here simultaneously with reading of the telegram to the convention in Los Angeles.

"The restoration of Democratic leadership and direction to the nation is essential in the face of the world situation," Truman said.

"No differences among us whatever they may be, can be important enough to impair our unity at a time when the security and the survival of this nation and of the free world are in jeopardy."

GOP Presses Rocky For Second Spot

Nixon Would Be Happy To Have Him As Running Mate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Republicans began putting pressure on Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York Friday to take second place on a presidential ticket headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

But they may need more than the example of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's acceptance of the Democratic vice-presidential nomination to put their drive across.

In some ways the New York governor and the Texas senator are in similar political positions. Both are big men in their parties, with special appeals to some segments of the electorate.

Johnson obviously was chosen by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, to help the party ticket in the South, where some difficult shoals appear to lie ahead.

Appeals To GOP

As a middle of the roader, Johnson is credited with having some appeal to Republican voters. But it is doubtful that his presence on the ticket will lure any sizable number of them to support Kennedy.

Rockefeller's high political value to the Republicans lies in his demonstrated ability to attract independent voters. He had to have more than regular Republican support to get elected governor of New York.

Since he has been in that post Rockefeller has been talking at times like a Democrat. He has assailed the Eisenhower administration's defense program in words strikingly similar to those used by Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and other Democrats.

Nixon is fully aware that the Republicans as a party are outnumbered nationally. He knows he is going to have to have Democratic and independent votes to win.

For that reason, Nixon obviously would be happy to have Rockefeller as his running mate, despite the differences that have cropped up between them over some vital domestic policies.

Prospect Not Alluring

But the prospect of playing second fiddle to Nixon is not alluring to Rockefeller. He has a big job, possibly second only to the presidency itself. He has two more years to build his record before running for re-election.

If Nixon loses and Rockefeller can get himself re-elected governor two years from now, he will have what amounts to a lead pipe cinch to get the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. If Nixon wins and Rockefeller remains governor, he would be the most available candidate in 1968.

If Rockefeller takes second place on the ticket, he may win the vice presidency and be subject to Nixon's whim as to whether that office reverts to a mere ceremonial post. Nixon says it won't, but men can change their minds when they are clothed with presidential power.

Truman Pledges His Services

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman Friday night pledged his "personal services in any way that I may be asked" toward the election of Sen. John F. Kennedy, whose nomination he had vociferously opposed, as president.

In a telegram to Gov. LeRoy Collins of Fla., chairman of the Democratic National Convention, Truman said "with the nomination of Sen. John F. Kennedy for president and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson for vice president, the Democratic Party must now close ranks and go to work."

The message was released here simultaneously with reading of the telegram to the convention in Los Angeles.

UN Force Gains Order In Congo

Belgians Leave, Police Take Over

LEOPOLDVILLE. The Congo (AP)—U. N. forces swiftly made their presence felt Friday in opening efforts to restore peace and order in this young African nation.

Maj. Gen. Henry T. Alexander, British commander of Ghana's army, with only 10 men to back him up, divided this embattled city between Belgian and Congolese troops and brought a new note of sanity into the near anarchy of recent days.

After a peaceful beginning, the day had wound up with a near riot and lynching set off by the killing of two Congolese civilians and the wounding of a third which the Congolese blamed on white civilians.

Alexander stepped into this ugly situation, pulled Belgian troops out of the area and moved in Congolese police. The police dealt swiftly and efficiently with a crowd of about 800 Congolese shouting for blood.

Face Hostile Crowd

For nearly an hour, Belgian paratroopers had stood facing the hostile crowd, tear gas bombs in hand and submachine guns ready.

The Belgian troops were not responsible for the killings. Alexander stepped in as Premier Patrice Lumumba, who has been unable to restore order, was telling the Congolese Parliament that Belgian troops must be withdrawn immediately.

Working with U. N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, Belgians and Congolese army men, Alexander concluded a written agreement that Belgian troops will remain in their positions in certain areas of the city until they can be replaced by U. N. troops.

The Congo's army will be responsible for its own area although most of the Congolese troops have given up their arms. Alexander did not define these areas as, he said, he did not want to create uneasiness either among blacks or whites. It is known, however, that the Belgians will still control the city exits.

Briton To Remain

Here solely as the chief of the Ghana detachment, the Briton said he would remain until U. N. command headquarters are established. The U. N. force comes under the command of Maj. Gen. Carl Carlsson von Horn of Sweden, since 1958 head of the U. N. truce supervision organization in Palestine.

Alexander said he hoped two battalions of Ghanaian troops and two battalions of Tunisians will be here within the next few days. A U. S. airlift Friday landed about 380 Tunisian soldiers. They are the first of 600 being sent from Tunis.

Pink Is Favorite Color Of Kennedys

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Kennedy women seem to have a favorite color—shocking pink.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy wore a sheath that color in her son's hour of triumph.

Whenever the Kennedy sisters and in-laws are together, at least one of them has on this shade. And three of them wore shocking pink short evening frocks at the Democrats' $100-a-plate dinner.

Lawrence Tibbett, Famed Baritone Singer, Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Lawrence Tibbett, 63, famed baritone whose singing career ranged from the Metropolitan Opera to radio, motion pictures and Broadway musicals, died Friday at Roosevelt Hospital.

He had undergone an operation June 27 for an old head injury. A hospital spokesman said Tibbett had been unconscious since the operation.

He was an all-around singer, both for the masses and the musical elite. Unlike many opera stars, who shun the common entertainment media, Tibbett put his talents to work in all kinds of musical productions.

Tibbett began his career singing in theaters and churches, first in his native California and later in the New York vicinity. He hit stardom suddenly.

That was on a night of Jan. 2, 1925, at the Metropolitan Opera House, where he sang the part of

Italy's Ruling Party To Form Coalition Group

ROME (UPI)—Italy's ruling Christian Democrats Party Friday agreed to abandon Premier Fernando Tambroni's right-leaning coalition government and form one with center-left support, possibly isolating the Communists in parliament.

The plan devised by the party directorate was designed to rid the party of a neo-fascist taint and could bring back former Premier Amintore Fanfani, the party's leftwing leader, to head the new government.

A party spokesman said it would be a one party affair supported by votes from the Social Democrats, the Liberals and the Republicans.

There are three ways in which Tambroni could step down, or be ousted should he refuse. The simplest would be to hand his resignation to President Giovanni Gronchi who would then consult party leaders on choice of a new candidate.

The matter could also be put to a parliamentary vote of confidence on some issue such as the government's handling of the recent riots—which were sparked by Communists who used as an excuse Tambroni's acceptance of support from fascists.

The third and most logical solution under the new liberal democratic decision would be for Tambroni to hand his resignation to the party which would then be faced with selecting his successor.

Leftwing Socialist leader Pietro Nenni, whose followers in the past often have supported the Communists, indicated he might at least indirectly support the new government. This would place the Communists on their own in parliament.

Man Buys Bus For Long Trip

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Get 15 others, raise $400, and you too can take a month's vacation to California—provided you don't need to travel first class.

Steve Yantus, a coal miner from Central City, Pa., decided last month that he wanted to go to California. After buying an abandoned 48 - passenger school bus for $100, installing a few beds in the back, Yantus, his wife, Helen, their four children, and his 65-year-old mother-in-law hopped on board and headed toward Cleveland.

On the way they picked up two other relatives. Seven more boarded the bus here, and it was off to sights like the Indianapolis Speedway, Boulder Dam, Lake Mead, the Petrified Forest, and the Painted Desert.

"The only trouble we had," Yantus recalled Friday, "was a flat tire at the Grand Canyon. And someone broke into the bus in Las Vegas while we were looking at the sights and escaped with $28." Their exact cost was $207.33 for gas, oil, repairs, lubrication and tolls, and $198 for food, which they cooked themselves.

New Frontier Has Unknown Perils Ahead

Kennedy Sees More Sacrifice Instead Of More Security

LOS ANGELES COLISEUM (AP)—John F. Kennedy gravely and gratefully accepted Friday night the Democratic presidential nomination and the challenges of a New Frontier—"a frontier of unknown opportunities and perils... at a turning point in history."

The man to whom the Democrats have given their highest honor beckoned to Americans of every political faith to come to his side, to pioneer this frontier that he said "holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

The one great question, Kennedy said, is whether America can survive as a nation of free men in a changing world where he said friends have slipped into neutrality and neutrals into hostility, and Communist influence "now festers some 90 miles off the coast of Florida."

The times, he said, call for a new generation of leadership, new men to cope with new problems and new opportunities, and, he predicted, "We shall prevail."

Brought To Close

The ringing speech of acceptance brought the Democratic National Convention to a close. Peering more into the future than back through the past, it was prepared for delivery here in a yawning, 100,000-seat amphitheater.

There was another such address too, with somewhat similar accents.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, crushed by Kennedy in a bid for the presidential nomination and then offered second place on the ticket, accepted the vice-presidential nomination at what he termed this moment of opportunity "in these times of peril."

Of Kennedy, he said that long ago "I saw inside this man the steel of strength."

"At the threshold of a new era," he said, "this convention has closed the door on the things which have divided Americans in the past. We have stepped across—boldly—into what I believe will be a new day of hope and harmony for all Americans—regardless of religion, race, or region."

Other party leaders lined up to speak, too. And there was a superabundance of star-spangled entertainment before the oratory got under way.

Kennedy's Night

But this was Kennedy's night, before his fellow Democrats and a nation looking on through television.

The youthful Massachusetts senator didn't leave off any of the usual trimmings of an acceptance speech.

Kennedy accepted something else: That Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be his foe in political warfare with the Republicans.

"We know," he said, "they will invoke the name of Abraham Lincoln on behalf of their candidate—despite the fact that his political career has often seemed to show charity toward none and malice for all."

"We know that it will not be

State's GOP Thinks Demo Slate Reversed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland Republican leaders think the Democrats picked the wrong battling order.

Their reaction Friday was that the opposing ticket would have stronger if Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas was the presidential nominee and Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts the vice presidential instead of the other way around.

"I can't visualize Sen. Johnson being second man on any team," said Sen. J. Glenn Beall. "I wonder if they can pull together as a team."

"As a presidential choice, Sen. Johnson would have carried the solid south, the border states and the independent voters," was the feeling of Sen. John Marshall Butler.

"I was disappointed to see Johnson accept the vice presidential call. It's just plain politics."

Theodore R. McKeldin, former governor, figured all along that the strongest Democratic ticket would have been Johnson-Kennedy. But he still thinks Republican Vice President Richard Nixon "will have a difficult time carrying any southern states with Sen. Johnson in there."

Richard Paul Gilbert, the Baltimore GOP chairman, also had expected the opposition ticket to read Johnson-Kennedy but also felt the reverse was strong.

Reaction of other Republicans included:

D. Eldred Rinehart, state chairman, "I think they have a good ticket, one balanced geographically, but Johnson-Kennedy would have been stronger."

Mrs. Robert O. Bonnell, national committeewoman, "I think Sen. Johnson is a very strong man, but I think the choice of Sen. Kennedy materially enhances Vice President Nixon's chances in the fall."

Dr. John C. Woodland, Negro delegate to the GOP national convention, "As far as the Negroes are concerned, I think the ticket is weakened with Johnson and that we can beat the Democrats easily."

Injured Youth Taken To Hospital By Helicopter

SALISBURY (AP) — A Smith Island boy was rushed by Navy helicopter to Peninsula General Hospital here Friday after he fell from a motor boat and was cut by the propeller in Chesapeake Bay.

A hospital spokesman said William Bryan Tyler, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schultz Tyler of Ewell, Smith Island, was badly cut on the chin and neck.

His condition was not known immediately.

The spokesman gave this account:

William got into an outboard motor boat near the public dock at Ewell while the motor was running. He accidentally fell overboard and attempted to grab hold of the propeller, but was struck by the boat.

Some men on the dock pulled the boy from the water and took him to Dr. William N. Heffner, the island physician. The doctor treated the youngster for shock and called for a helicopter from the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

Two Burned In Explosion

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Two civilian employees suffered second degree burns Friday in a fire and explosion at the National Security Agency headquarters.

Werner Fornos of the Army post public information office said only minor damage was caused to the four-story building which is the center for evaluation of national security information.

Col. Paul Willard, adjutant general, said the explosion was among dust in a paper disposal machine that ignited waste paper.

Fornos said only a few of the workers were forced outside of the building despite dense smoke.

The injured were identified as D. W. Fuller of (4713 Greenbelt Rd.) College Park, Md., and R.L. Newton of Hanover, Md. They were treated at the post hospital.

The fire was put out by the post fire department. Firemen from nearby Odenton and Jessup were called to stand by as a precaution.

The National Security Agency moved to Ft. Meade from Arlington, Va., in 1957. An estimated 12,000 employees were involved.

The headquarters is located off the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

Sends Supplies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department announced Friday that 27,000 pounds of emergency supplies were being flown from the Canal Zone to Guatemala City for victims of a disastrous fire that occurred Thursday in a mental institution in the capital of the central American country.

Two C-54 transports ferried medical supplies, blankets and coats, clothing and cooking and eating utensils. Another plane load was expected with 13,000 additional pounds.

Elect Bishop

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Dr. Lafayette Harris, president of Philander Smith College of Little Rock, Ark., was elected bishop of Methodist Church Friday during the sixth Central Jurisdiction conference here.

Dr. Harris, 53, was the third man elevated to a bishop ranking. Rev. Charles F. Golden and Rev. Noah W. Moore Jr., both of Philadelphia, were elevated to the rank of bishop Thursday night.

Forestry Dept. Development Policy Panned

BALTIMORE (AP)—State planning director James J. O'Donnell criticized the Department of Forests and Parks Friday for "complete absence of policy" on development.

"Without a master plan, we just don't know where we're going," complained O'Donnell. "Without one, you look like you are waving around in the breeze."

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of parks, claimed it would be difficult to follow a master plan because of the shifts in population and rising costs of land.

The exchange between O'Donnell and the parks director came at a public hearing on the department's request for $3,761,000 the next fiscal year for capital improvements. Nearly 3 million is for acquisition of more park land.

Kaylor said many requests for increasing the size of parks comes from special citizen groups and legislators. The legislators may add to capital improvements.

Norman Heiden of the state planning department suggested that a master plan would be of "great advantage" in resisting changes.

In discussing the way land costs go up, Kaylor gave the new Gunpowder Park as an example. The original estimate of development of the park in Baltimore County was 3½ million dollars. Kaylor said it probably will be 6 million. This is because the state will have to pay nearly $500 an acre for the land instead of $300 as originally estimated.

easy to campaign against a man who has spoken or voted on every known side of every known issue. Mr. Nixon may feel it is his turn now, after the New Deal and the Fair Deal—but before he deals, someone had better cut the cards."

Kennedy took a few more passing swipes at Nixon and the Eisenhower administration.

"But," he said, "I think the American people expect more from us than cries of indignation and attack. The times are too grave, the challenge too urgent, and the stakes too high to permit the customary passions of political debate."

Also in passing, Kennedy raised and gave his answer on the issue of his Roman Catholic religion. He acknowledged that many Democrats regard it as a hazardous political risk.

Once again he said he hoped no American would waste his franchise by voting for or against him because of his faith.

And he wound up with a disclaimer that anyone else—he did not mention churchmen—can dictate his decisions: "I am telling you now what you are entitled to know: that my decisions on every public policy will be my own—as an American, a Democrat and a free man."

In large measure, the address was a challenge to the Democrats and all Americans to face up to new problems and new solutions he said demand new men.

Confused? So Am I

COLUMBUS (UPI)—City employees admitted today they were slightly confused about an exchange of letters between the Ohio Highway Department and the Columbus City Attorney's office.

The state sent this letter: "Will you please forward two more certified copies? We can't send Thermofax copies to the auditor's office so we must have at least two carbon copies which are certified. We have one carbon now so we still need two certified copies, one of which must be a carbon. Also, if you sent a Thermofax, please send a certified copy rather than a copy of a certified copy. Thank you."

The city's reply: "I cannot send you two certified copies since it seems the only carbon copy was sent to you previously. Unless I have a carbon copy, I can't obtain a certified carbon copy and without a certified carbon copy, I cannot obtain a Thermofax of a certified carbon copy, therefore, I will have to send two certified Thermofax of carbon copies or have your carbon copy certified and get a Thermofax copy of your certified carbon copy certified. Please return carbon copy."

Acid Fumes Empty Building

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 12-story building in the heart of midtown Manhattan was emptied hurriedly Friday when a fire in a plastics concern unleashed acid fumes that knocked out 20 firemen.

The fire broke out on the top floor of the building on 38th Street and 6th Avenue, off three short blocks from Macy's and Gimbel's department stores.

The entire block was closed when nitrous oxide or laughing gas, fumes wafted from the burning plastics company. All occupants of the building were rushed outdoors.

The incident occurred during the height of the mid-day lunch rush, clogging traffic that was rerouted and attracting swarms of curiosity seekers.

All of the affected firemen were carried from the stairs and were either treated at the scene or at hospitals.

The acid was used in the manufacture of products made of plastic in the Greenbaum Novelty Co. building.

Sign Agreement

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India and the Soviet Union signed an agreement Friday for India's purchase of 15 million tons of Soviet refined petroleum products.

Last week, three western firms which control India's oil industry, Caltech, Burmah Shell and Standard Vacuum refused to refine Soviet crude oil at the government's request.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am married and have two small children. My mother is only 45 years old. She is attractive, lively and likes a good time. She's been a widow for almost 20 years and always had dates, but nothing serious until 5 years ago.

Mom has been going with Steve and no one else. He gives her money and buys her clothes. She doesn't work.

Several of my friends and relatives have told me that she is immoral and some have even called her a plain tramp. I've asked her to marry me, but she never wants to marry again.

My husband says she is disgracing us and that I should have nothing to do with her. Maybe I'm wrong but I love her in spite of the talk. My husband said to write to you for your opinion. He told me to be sure to tell you we have children who will soon be asking questions. Thank you — POLLY

DEAR POLLY: Tell your husband disgrace doesn't rub off on people. Your mother is a grown woman and the rather sorry mess she's made of her life is her own little red wagon.

When your children ask questions, simply tell them that Steve is Grandma's gentleman friend who takes her places because she has no husband. No other details are necessary. Don't feel that you must apologize to anyone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 23, married a swell fellow a few months ago, and am now separated.

Chris had to travel in his business and I got fed up being alone four nights a week. I told him either to change jobs or move out. He got mad and hollered at me that I knew what line of business he was in when I married him. Then he moved out bag and baggage.

My folks are disgusted with me and I can't blame them. I made a big mistake and I know it. The question I need advice with is this:

There is a vacancy in the same building where my husband now lives and I would like to move over there. I'm sure it would help bring us together. My folks say NO. But I know Chris better than they do.

I've written him several letters and he hasn't answered. He hasn't returned my phone calls. In short, he's been ignoring me. I don't trust my own judgment any more. Can you help?

Three Return From National FHA Meeting

Three Allegheny County girls are heading home today from the 1960 national meeting of the Future Homemakers of America which ended a five-day session yesterday at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Attending from here were Nancy J. Fitzwater, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fitzwater, Bowling Avenue, an Allegheny High School junior; Beverly Robinson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson, RFD 1, Oldtown, a junior at Flintstone High School, and Sally Ott Miller, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller, RFD 1, Frostburg, a senior at Valley High School, Lonaconing.

Among the advisors at the convention was Mrs. Mary Jane Shipway, Allegheny High School home economics teacher, who is in charge of the Allegheny House on Sedgwick Street opposite the school. Another advisor was Mrs. Virginia L. Puffenberger, a native of Flintstone who now lives at Beltsville.

"Home—The Hub of Good Citizenship" was the theme of the convention, attended by some 800 teenage delegates. They came from 48 states including Hawaii as well as Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Nationally there are 500,000 members of the FHA. In Maryland there are 71 chapters with 2,144 members.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, delivered the opening address at the five-day convention. The young students explored many facets of good citizenship through discussion groups, panels, special program numbers and other events.

Club Plans Anniversary

Plans for a dinner and program to celebrate its 45th anniversary were formulated at the meeting of the Bedford Road Homemakers Club at Zion Methodist Church. It will be at the Ali Ghan Country Club August 23 at 6:30. Mrs. Thurman Cassell was named chairman of reservations and table arrangements and Mrs. Fred Roberts, program. The former is assisted by Mrs. Mae Cameron, Mrs. David Day, Mrs. Vincent Lindner, Mrs. Thomas Wotring, Mrs. Winnie Brode, Mrs. W. C. Straw, and Mrs. F. C. Thom; and the latter by Mrs. Frank Adams.

Reports on Short Course were given by Mrs. Ted Wojcik, Mrs. Cassell and Mrs. Paul Gilford. Slides of activities also were shown. The August meeting was cancelled because of the anniversary party. Announcement was made of the adult camp August 1-5 and Mrs. James Moreland was welcomed as a member.

prised of M. O. Dawson, Wendell Hester, Ted R. Sager, Minor Hartman, Seymour Ruckman and M. L. DeLawder.

Investigating officers, who included Sheriff Thomas J. Hawse, reported that Ritter was selling screen doors and windows in the Moorefield area.

There was no evidence of robbery, the sheriff said.

After the coroner's inquest Thursday night, the body of Ritter was taken to the Jones Funeral Home in Winchester, which is near Stephens City.

The victim is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marcella (White) Ritter; four children, two sons and two daughters; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ritter, all of Stephens City.

Ritter formerly worked at a Winchester firm as a salesman and more recently had been selling contracts on cabinetmaking and woodworking jobs. He also worked as an enumerator during the 1960 census.

Ritter told his mother-in-law, Mrs. Howard White, Stephens City, when he left home Wednesday at 1 p. m. he was going to West Virginia to "collect some money."

County Agent Advises On Treatment Of Chiggers

A new problem which has come to the attention of County Agent Joseph M. Steger concerns chiggers. A number of chiggers complaints have come to Mr. Steger's office in the Court House, primarily from the LaVale sector.

Permits Issued For Two Homes

Permits for two dwellings with a total value of $25,000 were issued yesterday by the City of Cumberland.

Miss Marie K. Holzshu, 640 Fayette Street, secured a permit for a one-story dwelling and garage at 752 Fayette Street.

The brick veneer structure will be 28 by 48 feet and is estimated to cost $14,000.

Crable C. Shryock, 513 Maryland Avenue, secured a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling on Lot 47 and part of 48 of Kentucky Avenue.

The home will be 40 by 26 feet and will cost about $11,000.

Rawlings Man Gets Dwelling Permit

David Springer of Rawlings has been issued a permit to build a dwelling about 100 yards off U.S. Route 220.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners, said the 40 by 24 feet dwelling will have a concrete block foundation and shingle roof and will cost $5,000 to build.

Economic Study

that the future prosperity of this region rests squarely on its ability to expand manufacturing employment.

Mr. Hubley congratulated Cumberland and the CIDC, for the "extraordinary vigor and persistence" used in attacking the area's problems and pledged the full support of the department to all local efforts.

A staff member, he said, will come here the first week in August to begin the area economic study. He suggested that Leonard C. Neff, CIDC director, select a small committee to aid in the study.

Garland L. Johnston, CIDC president, presided at the informal meeting held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel and attended by some 15 CIDC members.

Mr. Hubley was accompanied by William A. Pate, deputy director of the department, who will come here to aid in setting up the mechanics of the pilot study.

Stressed during the session was that "good intentions are not enough" and that any industrial development program must be learning the things that industry must know before it makes even a tentative decision to locate in a community.

Professional Men Purchase Local Building

Two local professional men have formed a corporation and have purchased an apartment house at 203 Greene Street (at the intersection of South Smallwood) and plan to convert it into offices in the near future.

They are Dr. Harry F. Butler, who now maintains a dentist office at 16 North Liberty Street and Dr. Harold W. Eliason, who maintains a pediatrician's office at 126 Union Street.

The corporation is known as Mirjean, Incorporated, and the deed to the property was recently filed in the land records office of Allegheny County Circuit Court.

The property, according to the deed, was purchased from Mrs. Edith M. McFerran, of 791 Fayette Street, whose husband, Charles R. McFerran died on November 15, 1958, giving her title to the property.

At the present time there are four apartments at the Greene Street address and two of them are now occupied, according to Dr. Butler, who said he plans to move his office to the new quarters sometime in December.

He pointed out that Dr. Eliason plans to move to the new location within the next month or six weeks. The other two apartments are to be converted to offices Dr. Butler said.

Parking facilities in the vicinity of the building will be improved according to Dr. Butler, who said a ramp will be built and will lead to the upstairs offices.

The dentist and physician plan to occupy the first floor of the building. The property was conveyed to Charles R. McFerran and his wife as tenants by entireties by deed of Louis M. Glick, dated October 30, 1941.

Those who know they have been exposed to chiggers should take a bath — or several baths — as soon as possible using plenty of soap and allow the soap to dry on the skin. Antiseptic should be placed on each welt. If reaction to the toxic fluid from chiggers is severe, the family physician should be consulted for quicker relief, according to Mr. Bissell.

Chiggers are found most often in low, damp places where vegetation is rank — for example, berry patches, orchards, woodlands and margins of lakes and streams.

To avoid the irritating results of contact with chiggers, take along a bottle of insect repellent formulated to protect you. Picnic areas can be made safe by mowing the grass and spraying with an insecticide.

Dr. Compton Tells Of Her Trip

After a two-month trip around the world, Dr. Lillian C. Compton returned yesterday from Orkney Springs, Va., where she attended the C.F.O. Camp, Shrine Mont, conducted by Miss Louise Eggleston. The latter, who was a guest speaker here two years ago, leaves Monday with a group of 40 for a three-month trip around the world. Dr. Compton attended camp with Rev. and Mrs. Louis P. Chastain, Elaine Chastain, Mrs. Louise Nicklin and Mrs. Ethel Fair.

In discussing her trip, Dr. Compton said she was one of five who was not sick on the trip. "There were no mishaps and no fears." She "could not believe it" when she read of the demonstrations in Japan, for everyone had been "very friendly, every place." It is "so Westernized and like America, even the trains." Dr. Compton said there was "no country she loved more." The tour director told them they could set their watches by the train, which was "never late and always on time."

Dr. Compton, retired president of Frostburg State Teachers College and former assistant superintendent of Allegany county schools, was accompanied on her trip by Miss Myrtle Eckhardt, Glyndon, supervisor here, before going to Prince Georges County; and Miss Merle Bateman, formerly with the State Department of Education.

They left Baltimore by jet and flew over the Grand Canyon at sunset. Visited in San Francisco before going to Hawaii for three or four days. They spent 10 days in Japan, where the principal cities they visited were Tokyo, Nikko, Kyoto and Atami; and saw Mount Fuji in the morning sunshine. Dr. Compton reported there was sunshine all the trip, except for a few hours in Japan and Rome.

Visiting Hong Kong for four or five days, Dr. Compton spoke of enjoying the shopping, where her purchases included a cashmere coat and rough silk suit, which was made for her in 24 hours. They then went to Thailand, visiting Bangkok, the Cambodian ruins and spent 15 days in India, stopping at Calcutta, Delhi, Agra, Jaipur, "the peacock city" and Bombay, where she rode an elephant.

Taking about 500 pictures, Dr. Compton spoke of the "thrill" of flying over the Red Sea, Dead Sea and Nile. Landing in Egypt, they visited Luxor, the Pyramids and rode the camels. About one week was spent in Jordan, visiting Jerusalem, and then went to Jericho, where Christ was baptized. In Lebanon they visited the big American University at Beirut and went by auto to Baalbek and on to Damascus, where she was eager to see the street called Straight where Paul lost his sight and it was restored in the house of Annanias.

"Several wonderful days" were spent in Turkey, Dr. Compton reported. The visit to the Taj Mahal and Mt. Fuji, were the highlights of her trip she said, and spoke of the Blue Mosque, one of the most beautiful buildings in the world, and the luxurious Hilton Hotel in Istanbul. They also had a dust storm, which delayed them a bit.

Next they went to Athens, Greece, visiting the Parthenon, Corinth and Delphi; took a boat trip through the Greek Islands, but as the water was rough they got off at Mykonos for a motor tour through the country. After three or four days in Rome the group left at 3 p.m., stopped in Paris, 45 minutes and arrived in New York City at 7:15 p.m. Gaining the six hours they enjoyed hours of sunset, Dr. Compton said.

Secrets Of Charm

What Goes On Inside Your Purse?

Are you a woman whose handbag must be a portable desk? Then, the bigger, the better. But, if you are small in stature, try to keep down the size of your handbag. You don't want to look as though you are lugging a suitcase. With afternoon or evening costumes you should carry a tastefully dressy bag; with suits and town clothes, something tailored. These are common-sense fashion rules that well-dressed women follow by second nature.

Yet, when it comes to the contents of the purse, some women seem to lose their heads completely! Scarps of paper with illegible notes, buttons, bits of fabric, used-up lipsticks, bobby pins — all sort of impedimenta clutter a handbag so that it resembles the jumble in a little boy's treasure-trove pocket.

Such chaos reveals your disorganization. Is any woman really so rushed that she can't empty the handbag and catalogue or discard its contents?

Why not end the turmoil? Proclaim yourself smart and sensible by keeping your handbag in order. No digging for bus fare. No scramble for pencil and paper when you need them at a second's notice. No unrewarding dive for a lipstick that isn't there. You'll put a stop, too, to bewildered or contemptuous stares of male companions.

Here are some hints from our busy, yet glamorous professional

Jaycees To Have Two Summer Socials

A report on the "Flower Bed" project was given and plans formulated for two socials at the monthly dinner meeting of the Jaycees, Thursday evening at the Cumberland Country Club. Mrs. Edward Eyer presided and Mrs. Stanley Goodrich offered the invocation.

Discussing the "Flower Bed" contest, Mrs. Goodrich explained that it is the first time it has been held. Eleven playgrounds are participating. Some will have window boxes, which can be placed at the schools later; others are making theirs in the sand boxes; while some are making individual ones from aluminum foil. All the children will take part in the contest, under the assistance of the playground leaders. The Jaycees bought the plants the children selected. Judging will be at the end of the season. A meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Mullin, Washington Street, Tuesday to select the judges and prizes.

Plans were formulated for the annual get-together party. It will be given by the officers and board members and will be at the home of Mrs. Laura Murray, Braddock Road, August 18 at 8 p.m. A special entertainment program will be held.

The splash party was announced by Mrs. Ray Philippi, social chairman. It is to be held at Minke's pool, July 22, beginning at 6:30.

Mrs. Raymond Lapp, Jr., was the guest speaker. She showed slides and told of her trip to Miami, Fla., as Mrs. Maryland in the Mrs. America contest. She also distributed recipes for her favorite barbecues.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, 804 Gephart Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lamberson, Barton, visited in Philadelphia and the New England states during the past week.

Remind yourself that you're not carrying a dressing table or desk along with you. That thought will help you to decide what's essential and what's extra. On a rainy day you may want to tuck a pair of boots into your handbag (in their own little case, of course), but why leave them there day after day?

When you empty a handbag to put away or transfer necessities from one bag to another, take a look at the condition of the bag itself. Brush or polish it after each day's use to make it look smarter, longer. Then it will, like its well-organized contents, portray you as a woman who's neat and resourceful.

Russian Liars World's Crudest

There is no doubt that Moscow is lying in its version of the shooting down of still another U.S. plane. Ten days passed after the shooting during which Russia professed to know nothing about the missing plane, and to be sending ships to help search for it.

The plane was sighted, by the Russians' account, two miles outside the 12-mile limit Russia claims, and 11 miles outside the three-mile limit recognized by the United States and international law. When the pilot of the Russian fighter plane signaled the plane to follow for landing, it continued "deeper" into the air space of the Soviet Union.

The plane, obviously, was shot down over international waters.

Russia has attacked or shot down 15 American planes in the last 10 years, killing more than 75 men, and in almost every case she has given a similar story. With the sole exception of the U-2, the planes attacked were either not over Soviet territory at all, like the B-2 over Japanese territory in 1952, or on or near the fringes of Soviet soil or Soviet-claimed waters, where they might easily have strayed by accident.

Russia's attempt to use the latest incident in psychological warfare against the United States is backfiring. The Russians may pride themselves on being the world's greatest liars, but they are also the most crude.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Secretary Of State

Nearly as important as the President will be the next Secretary of State. Upon his shoulders will fall the responsibility of finding an honorable road to dealing with the Soviet world. He will need to be knowledgeable, experienced, a competent administrator, capable of controlling his deskmen and also fighting off the opinionated Senators who seek to force upon the world their private views. This means that we shall have to have a man whom the nation respects.

If Richard Nixon is elected, it depends upon who runs for Vice President as to who the Secretary of State will be. The favorite for both the Vice Presidency and the Secretaryship of State is Henry Cabot Lodge. If Lodge runs as Vice President, he will, of course, not be appointed Secretary of State, although he would be the most competent Republican for it. In those circumstances, a strong effort will be made to divorce Thomas E. Dewey from an extremely lucrative law practice. Dewey could be relied upon not to be beguiled by the Kremlin. He would, however, not be as acceptable to Congress as Lodge would be.

In the event that neither Dewey nor Lodge should be available, Senator Styles Bridges may be asked to serve in this position. Before Governor Nelson Rockefeller became so obnoxious, his name was heard as a possibility but it is heard no more. The present incumbent, Christian Herter, would not be considered.

Should the Democrats be elected, it is likely that Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, or Senator Fulbright might be considered. It would be most logical for the Democrats to restore Dean Acheson to that position as his current views seem to be the most sound expressed by anyone in the Democratic Party. He adds to knowledge and experience wisdom which such a man as Adlai Stevenson does not seem to possess. In fact, the mere suggestion of making Adlai Stevenson Secretary of State frightens those who still hope to preserve the United States as a nation.

The difference between Stevenson and Acheson is that the former seems to learn nothing either by experience or from knowledge. Having adopted a doctrinaire position sometime before 1932, he cannot change no matter what the course of events does to his assumptions. He has no sense of timing. No matter what harm it may do to the United States, he utters words and assumes positions which can only give aid and comfort to the enemy. As a former State Department employee, he knows all about the spying that is done by Soviet Russia and for that matter, the spying that we do. His innocent demeanor about the U-2 was an absurdity. Whom did he think he was kidding?

Unfortunately when men are so ambitious that they believe their own publicity, they can do the nation as a whole great mischief. There can be little doubt that public statements by Stevenson and other Democrats encouraged Khrushchev, who cannot understand our form of government, to believe that it would be to his advantage not to continue negotiations with President Eisenhower, knowing that he will cease to be President in January.

Such a speech as Paul Butler delivered on the opening night of the Democratic Convention must have pleased Khrushchev. It gave one the feeling that Khrushchev was calling the shots and writing the platitudes.

The danger is that Khrushchev will believe that this country is really sharply divided and that a large part of the American people are so antagonistic to President Eisenhower that they are favorably disposed to the Kremlin. Surely a speech such as Paul Butler's will give courage to Castro and other Kremlin slaves in Latin America.

Senator Frank Church's speech was not much better in those sections which dealt with foreign policy. He, too, failed to recognize the delicacy of the moment; the danger of strengthening the enemy. Senator Church is an anti-Communist but unfortunately he tried to mix his anti-Communism with anti-Eisenhower and produced an explosive mishmash.

The Democrats need a Secretary of State who can think in terms of national interest and not how to get even with Republicans. In fact, during the next four years, it will not matter much whether the Secretary of State is a Republican or a Democrat, as long as he is patriotic and has a measure of common sense.

'Secretary Of State? Secretary Of Defense?'

Is Kennedy Doomed To Defeat In November?

By David Lawrence

LOS ANGELES, July 15—"Can he win? Will he win?" These two questions are really not the same, but they are being asked continuously around here among delegates, newspapermen and people generally as the Democratic National Convention comes to a close.

The answer to the first question is that, under certain circumstances, Senator John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, could win. Business could take a severe slump. Unemployment could produce discontent in many areas where big electoral votes are cast. A serious blunder by the administration in handling foreign policy could change the whole face of things between now and November.

As to the second question, whether Senator Kennedy will win, a positive prediction cannot be made about anything in the future. Taking, however, just the economic and world conditions that exist as of this moment, and assuming that they will still prevail in November, Senator Kennedy seems doomed to defeat by a substantial margin of electoral votes.

The Massachusetts Senator could correct some of the errors of strategy made at this convention and, by repudiating some provisions of his own platform, might win back some of the electoral votes he appears to have lost overnight in the solid south. But, as of today, nothing like this is in prospect.

The principal reasons why Senator Kennedy will not win are these:

1. Inexperience. This is not to be confused with the "youth" argument. There is no reason why a 43-year-old man shouldn't be elected President simply because of age. Vice President Nixon is only 47. But the "experience" argument is something else again. It goes to the heart of the question of public confidence in the maturity and judgment of a man who is to hold the most powerful office in the world at one of the most critical times in American history. Vice President Nixon has had daily experience in national and international affairs in the past seven and a half years. He is familiar with the Eisenhower policies and the workings of the Executive Branch of the government as well as with Congressional affairs. He will be endorsed vigorously by President Eisenhower, who still is a very popular figure.

2. The basic attitude of the electorate toward a change of administrations. There is no deep-seated desire on the part of people generally for change. The speakers at the Democratic Convention dug up every adverse argument they could against the administration, but, except for some sectional grievances, came up with only vague generalities on national and international policy which amounted in substance to the statement: "We don't like the administration and want the jobs for ourselves, and we can do better." It takes more than a mere plea for public office to convince the electorate. Persuasive and explicit reasons have to be given. The vast number of persons employed and the general level of prosperity do not indicate a demand for change, as is so often distinctly expressed when times are bad.

3. The party platform. Every small business man and every plant and business establishment, as well as every private club and every private school, now is on notice that the Democratic platform insists on a proportionate number of Catholics, Protestants and Jews — as well as whites and Negroes — being employed or being admitted to private

State Department Killed Chief Staff Proposal For Intervention In Cuba

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — While the Democrats were in Los Angeles wrestling with the selection of their candidate, the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington was making one of the most momentous recommendations since the end of the war.

It advised President Eisenhower to crack down on Cuba with military force before it's too late. They recommended the use of Marines and paratroopers to take over the entire island.

This would bring us back to approximately the days when we occupied Cuba after the Spanish-American War, and the State Department immediately objected. It informed President Eisenhower that nothing would turn Latin-American sentiment against the United States more than military intervention in Cuba.

Secretary of State Herter urged instead that the United States endeavor to persuade the Pan American Union to intervene in Cuba with a joint Pan American force. This, however, would be difficult. Latin-American nations are as anxious to avoid intervention as Governor Faubus is anxious to avoid integration in Arkansas.

Cuban-Soviet Defense Pact?

What put a firecracker under the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding Cuba was a very suspicious trip by Raul Castro, brother of Fidel, to Czechoslovakia, Egypt and Moscow. It was strongly suspected that he was on a secret mission to sign a mutual defense pact with the Soviet.

So far this has not been confirmed. However, a mutual defense pact between Cuba and Russia would be equivalent to the mutual defense pacts we have signed with Iran, Turkey and other countries on the Soviet border. If they are attacked by Russia, we promise to go to their defense.

Now the shoe is on the other foot, with Khrushchev pledging—at least by public statement—to attack the United States if we intervene in Cuba.

Whether Raul Castro actually signed a defense pact is not known. What is known is that he arranged with the Czechs to ship two small arms factories, operated by the famed Skoda Munitions Works, to Cuba. This would permit Cuba to be independent of small arms imports in case of an American blockade.

Note—Khrushchev's warnings to the United States not to intervene in Cuba are being compared in the diplomatic corps to our warning to Stalin to keep the Red Army out of Iran in 1946. Moscow has long chafed over this, plus U. S. troops on the Soviet border. What it wants most is Russian bases close to the United States. Strategy is to use them as a bargaining weapon to force our withdrawal from the perimeter of the Soviet.

Tribute To Thompson

At almost the same time Premier Khrushchev was blasting the United States regarding Cuba, 300 Russian officials and diplomats called at the American Embassy in Moscow in honor of the American Independence Day. U.S. Ambassador "Tommy" Thompson was dumfounded.

He hadn't expected any Russians to his 4th of July reception. Figured they would boycott it. But 300 came, including First Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov.

Reason appeared to be twofold: 1. The Russians actually want peace with the American

The Competition

By Leslie Gould

U. S. industry is faced with the problem of how to meet the growing foreign competition.

This competition is toughest in the world markets, but it is increasing of late in the domestic market.

This in a large measure is the price being paid for the multi-billion dollar post-war foreign aid program, which has succeeded so terrifically that America's toughest competitors are the former enemies—now allies—Japan and West Germany.

In addition, there is the competition from the Communist world, which gives no consideration to profits and uses slave or semi-slave labor.

In meeting this competition—which is bound to step up in intensity—U. S. industry is:

1.—Attempting through more efficient plant and machinery to increase worker productivity.

2.—Trying to bring home to the workers that wage increases and higher fringe benefits must be met by increased productivity.

3.—Building plants in some of the lower labor cost countries, particularly in the European common market area.

American industry is currently spending at the annual rate of $35 billion on capital improvements, and the forecast is for this to reach a $37 billion rate in the final half of 1960.

In the last 10 years U. S. industry has spent more than $306 billion on new plant and equipment. The annual rate has gone from $26.6 billion in 1950 to the expected $36 billion for the full current year. Prewar such expenditures ran around $6½ billion. Inflation accounts for a large part of the dollar increase.

Until very recently, wage increases and fringe benefits have run well ahead of gains in productivity. This varies according to industries, and in some lines productivity increases have matched wages and a few have increased more than labor costs.

Prewar, and in the immediate post war years, U. S. industry with the most modern plant and equipment was able to more than offset cheaper foreign labor. Also, American labor was geared to mass production, while abroad the emphasis was on craftsmanship, entailing a great deal of wasteful hand work.

This has changed. Foreign industry now has plants as efficient and in many lines more efficient plants and machinery. The war destroyed factories have been replaced with the most modern. This change was financed largely by the U. S. taxpayers. Since the end of the war, U. S. economic aid has reached the staggering sum of $47 billion. In addition, is the military aid of $27 billion.

In finding themselves priced out of many parts of the world people even though they attack Nixon and the Eisenhower administration; 2. the Kremlin has real respect for Ambassador Thompson as a man who accurately reports their country.

Recent rumor has had it that Thompson would be fired. So the Russians, whom Thompson has fought hard on important policies, turned out as a mark of respect for a man they consider an honest diplomat.

Convention Go-Round

Up to the first roll call, the Kennedy forces were dangling the vice presidency before almost any bigwig with a few votes in his pocket. Ohio's Gov. Mike Di Salle called upon Sen. Stu Symington in Kennedy's behalf. . . . "I have been authorized by Senator Kennedy to place your name in nomination for vice president," Di Salle announced. "I am running for president," retorted Symington. . . . During an earlier huddle with Minnesota's Gov. Orville Freeman and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, candidate Kennedy hinted strongly that he would like Freeman as his running mate. . . . Kennedy aides passed similar messages to Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson of Washington, Gov. George Dockett of Kansas and Gov. Herschel Loveless of Iowa. . . . One who believed the message sent to Jackson was Dan Martin, a Jackson booster and a power in the California delegation. At a party thrown by singer Phil Reagan, Martin cornered him and snapped angrily: "Kennedy wants Jackson as his running mate. You stop supporting Symington." . . . During the dickering and dealing before the roll call, Bobby Kennedy, the Senator's younger brother, called Symington's office. "I got a message Senator Symington wants to talk to me," he said. . . . "I'm sorry," sweetly responded Virginia Laird, Symington's secretary. "No one here is trying to reach you." . . . A pickpocket snatched California Congressman John Moss's floor pass out of his pocket while he was huddling on the convention floor. . . . Pennsylvania's Gov. Dave Lawrence, a power in the Democratic party for a quarter of a century, privately boasted Gov. Le Roy Collins of Florida to be the new Democratic National Chairman. Outgoing Chairman Paul Butler recommended Michigan National Committeeman Tom Quimby.

REVENING PLANS — President Eisenhower has reluctantly shelved a pet plan to reorganize the White House and the Cabinet, but will pursue it as a private citizen.

What the President has in mind is the creation of two top positions in the Executive Department, tantamount to deputies to the President.

The principal deputy would coordinate the work of the Cabinet and backstop the President. He'd rank above Cabinet members, and at one time Mr. Eisenhower had the late John Foster Dulles in mind for this post. The second deputy would be in the category of a general manager of government. He would have broad powers over the budget, personnel policy and planning. In addition he would supervise the executive offices of the President and some of the independent government agencies. Mr. Eisenhower has considered Budget Director Maurice H. Stans as an ideal appointee to this office.

The President has long regarded this scheme as necessary to streamline the office of the President and make it more workable. He thought originally that he would seek Congressional approval so timed as to make it effective upon the next President.

Several factors have arisen, however, which caused him to give up any thoughts of accomplishing this while he is in the White House. Instead, it probably will be one of his principal activities when he becomes a private citizen on next January 20.

Congress has declined to extend a law which gives the President reorganizing powers. Besides, he has been persuaded that it could be interpreted as an indirect expression of lack of faith in the abilities of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Don't Let Your Pets Give You Their Diseases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An editor who implies that pets transmit diseases to children and adults is taking his life in his hands. Pet lovers are extremely sensitive to the slightest criticism of their dogs, cats, or parakeets. They also are vocal and never hesitate to let a columnist know of their displeasure along this line.

Pets are lovable, especially when friendly, devoted, and well trained. But our furry friends should be kept in their place. Avoid close contact, particularly when the animal appears ill. Call the veterinarian because we do not know how many diseases are transmitted from animal to man—and vice versa.

Among the infections transmitted from infected animals to humans is cat scratch fever, a viral disease with a name that describes the way it is spread. Psittacosis (parrot fever) comes from sick birds, especially parakeets. Rabies is an old-timer and the most dreaded of all animal diseases.

Encephalitis (sleeping sickness) is transmitted by the tsetse fly in Africa but in this country the causative microorganisms are carried by birds, horses, and mules and carried to humans via ticks or mosquitoes. The causative virus is found frequently in hamsters, guinea pigs, and occasionally in squirrels.

Canine distemper is believed to be related to respiratory disorders in humans. The similarity between measles in children and distemper in dogs and cats has been mentioned in medical journals. Studies suggest the possibility that dogs can develop mumps as the protective antibodies have been isolated from the blood of man's best friend.

The organisms responsible for diarrhea in children have been found in pets. In one instance, a child with diarrhea and his dog had the same germs. Who gave it to whom is the question. Skin diseases, including ringworm of the scalp, have been traced to pets.

LIVER AND JAUNDICE

W. J. writes: Is jaundice present in all forms of liver disease?

REPLY

No. Jaundice develops only when bile pigments accumulate in the blood and reach a level high enough to stain the tissues yellow, including the skin. This occurs rapidly in some forms of liver disease and slowly or not at all in other forms.

STOMACH STRETCHING

M. B. writes: A friend had part of his stomach removed nine years ago. He says it has not stretched back to its original size. I always had heard that it did. Please advise.

REPLY

The stomach does not always return to its previous size. Hence many persons who have had this operation feel better when they eat smaller meals more frequently rather than three squares a day.

NOSE DISEASE

M. T. writes: Should one marry if he has rhinoscleroma? Is there a cure?

REPLY

This inflammatory swelling of the nose often responds to streptomycin or radiation. It is not fair to your fiancée to get married when ill. Wait until the disease is brought under control.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cert

Pinched for speeding by a cop who had camouflaged himself behind a bush, Mrs. Kadison angrily put the summons in her pocketbook and later when back home, sighed to her husband, "Oh, for the good old days when cops didn't hide out, but took their chances in traffic like everybody else!"

W.Va. Auditor Candidate To Be Selected

Democrats Meet To Make Choice

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Despite efforts to simplify the task of selecting a candidate for state auditor it appears the West Virginia Democratic executive has anything but an easy task.

The committee will convene here next Friday in the House of Delegates chamber to pick a successor for the late Edgar B. Sims.

Most prominent party leaders would like to hand the position to state chairman Hulett C. Smith, but the Beckley Insurance executive has declined so far.

Such a move could be justified in all sections of the party, they say, and eliminate any possibility of producing factional fights resulting from selection of someone else.

Smith, who polled a whopping 130,000 votes while losing the party's gubernatorial nomination to W. W. Barron last May, is considered a better campaigner than most others mentioned as possible candidates. If his name were added to the ticket this fall, advocates of his candidacy believe it would strengthen the slate and give added impetus to the party's drive to recapture all major state-house offices.

If Smith maintains his present position, then any of a dozen persons might be chosen for the nomination.

The post was left vacant last month when Sims, who had served in state public office longer than any other man, died. The crusty 78-year-old auditor was first elected in 1932 and was seeking election to his eighth consecutive term at the time of his death.

One thing is definite about the new candidate, whoever he might be. It is a foregone conclusion he'll come from the southern part of the state. Party leaders have made this the number one criteria for the man given the nomination.

The party's general election slate is top heavy with candidates hailing from northern areas and selection of a southern candidate would tend to offset this fact which some believe is a disadvantage.

Smith would fill this qualification. He hails from Beckley, in the heart of the southern coal fields.

National Guard To Be Visited By Governor

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood will visit some 500 West Virginia National Guardsmen today at nearby Camp Dawson.

Underwood will participate in the annual Governor's Day ceremonies at the state-owned West Virginia military reservation.

The citizen-soldiers arrived here last Sunday and will conclude their two-week summer field training session next week end.

Units which Underwood will visit include the 1092nd Engineer Battalion from Parkersburg and Salem; 249th Army Band, Fairmont; 130th Ordnance Co., Williamsport; State Headquarters, Pt. Pleasant and Charleston, and officer candidates attending the West Virginia Military Academy.

The governor will be accompanied by Mrs. Underwood. Others scheduled to visit the Guardsmen are Secretary of State Joe F. Burdett, State Treasurer Litz McGuire, Asst. Atty. Gen. Gene Hal Williams and Republican gubernatorial nominee Harold Neely.

GOP Auxiliary Installs Officers

FROSTBURG — New officers for the 1960-61 year were seated at a recent meeting of the Young Mens Republican Club Auxiliary.

Each member will provide his own food. Other refreshments will be provided. In case of rain, the event will be held in the club rooms.

63 Children Visit Clinic

FROSTBURG — Sixty-three children were either inoculated or vaccinated at this week's Well Baby Clinic in the City Hall health room.

According to Lois Jackson, public health nurse, the inoculations were for polio, whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus. Vaccination was for smallpox. Children who will be entering Hill Street School first grade this fall should attend the next clinic to be held July 28.

Assisting Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Julia Sheebs, were two members of the lay health group. Mrs. Gwendolin Durst and Miss Carol Valentine. Dr. John B. Davis was the examining physician.

Mrs. Jackson also announced that polio shots will be given to adults up to 40 years of age at the afternoon clinic on the 28th. Persons who have not received any shots will have their last opportunity to receive the first inoculation at this clinic and the second at the August clinic. A wait of seven months is then necessary for the third shot.

Miners Protest Welfare Cut

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—A reinforced band of rebel pickets from a St. Michael's local of the United Mine Workers prevented miners from working Friday afternoon at the Berwind-White Coal Co. at nearby Wilmore.

Threats were hurled outside the mine but there were no incidents of violence.

The idle members of Local 3468, St. Michaels, are seeking nationwide sympathy to back demands for restoration of cutbacks in benefits from the welfare and retirement fund.

The rebel group prevented work at two other mines Thursday. Production was halted at the Bird Coal Co. mines at Riverside and Tire Hill. However, work was resumed at the mines Friday.

Locals 998 and 8502 held an emergency meeting Thursday and decided to ignore the roving pickets. However, the local members proposed the St. Michael group that a committee be sent to UMW headquarters in Washington to settle the issue.

Keyser Officials Study Water System In Area

KEYSER — Definite steps toward the procurement of a new source of water supply for the City of Keyser were taken this week at a meeting of the water resources committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

City Attorney Charles W. Smith, chairman of the 18-man committee, said the most important development of the session was the adoption of a recommendation to City Council that the community file an application with the Farm Home Administration for the purpose of obtaining funds for an investigation to determine the use of a water shed dam, known as Site 14, as a reservoir and water supply.

Keyser, whose present source of water is the Limestone Dam, and New Creek, has had serious water shortage in the past during dry summer months.

Smith explained, however, that the main purpose of seeking a new water source is for future industrial promotion and residential expansion.

Twelve members of the committee, including Martin Kesner and James Fuller who were recently appointed, attended the meeting which was also attended by Donald Robey, Romney, of the Soil Conservation Service, and Albert S. Paye, Cumberland, an engineer with the Luke plant of West Virginia Pulp and Paper.

Paye has agreed to make a study of the cost and the feasibility of piping water to Keyser from Site 14.

The next meeting of the water resources committee will be held August 9 at Rosemont Restaurant.

Reds Trip Pittsburgh, 4-1; Milwaukee Wins, 7-5

Lead Of Bucs Is Reduced To Three Games

Vada Pinson Stars; O'Toole Posts 9th, Beats Bob Friend

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Vada Pinson, Cincinnati's do-everything outfielder, drove in a run and scored another and Frank Robinson smacked a two-run double to pace the Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night.

The Pittsburgh defeat, coupled with Milwaukee's 7-5 win over Philadelphia, cut the front-running Pirates lead over the second-place Braves to three games.

Southpaw Jim O'Toole, who yielded seven hits, earned his seventh victory, although he needed help from Jim Brosnan over the last 1 2/3 innings. Brosnan retired all five batters he faced, making three of those strikeout victims.

Pinson harassed the Pirates by getting a pair of singles, a triple, stealing his 20th base and robbing Bob Skinner of an extra-base hit when he drifted deep into center field in the fifth inning to grab a well-hit fly ball.

The slender outfielder accounted for the first Cincinnati run in the opening inning. Leadoff batter Eddie Kasko singled off loser Bob Friend, advanced on a passed ball and scored when Pinson singled off Dick Stuart's glove.

Then Pinson, in a tremendous burst of speed, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, and came home after Wally Post flew out. Pinson lashed a triple along the left field line in the third inning with one out but was stranded as Gus Bell and Post were retired on infield putouts.

Erlay Face entered the game in the eighth inning and issued a walk to Bell, the first batter. Post singled and Robinson followed with his double.

Pittsburgh averted its second consecutive shutout when Skinner led off the eighth with a single and advanced to second on Dick Groat's infield out. Roberto Clement bunted safely and Stuart walked to load the bases. Brosnan was waved in from the bullpen and pinch-hitter Smokey Burgess drove in Skinner with a sacrifice fly to Bell in right.

Adcock Hits Grand Slam For Braves

Joe Hits Safely In 16th Straight; Spahn Bags Ninth

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Joe Adcock hit a grand slam home run Friday night to pace the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Warren Spahn won his ninth game against six losses but needed the help of Ron Piche to retire the final batter and end a Phillies' uprising.

Spahn boosted his career strikeout total to 2,001 in the third inning when losing pitcher Chris Short (4-6) fouled a third strike bunt attempt.

Adcock extended his hitting streak through 16 games with his blow in the fourth. The homer, 14th of the season, came off short after singles by Bill Bruton and Del Crandall and an intentional walk to Hank Aaron.

Frank Herrera accounted for four of Philadelphia's five runs with two homers. He hit his 12th with two mates, aboard in the sixth and led off the ninth with another.

Milwaukee added two runs in the fifth when Bruton singled, Crandall walked and Ed Mathews doubled against the rightfield wall. The Braves got another in the sixth, greeting reliever Dallas Green with singles by Mel Roach and Johnny Logan and Chuck Cotter's sacrifice fly.

The Phils chased Spahn in the ninth after Herrera's second homer as Ted Lepcio doubled and Jim Conley singled him home. Piche came in after Tony Gonzalez hit a pinch single. Piche ended the game by forcing Johnny Callison to fly deep to left.

County Board Passes New Pay Scale

Following the reading of an opinion by Leslie J. Clark, attorney for the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, a resolution was adopted by the commissioners yesterday amending the rules and regulations of the classified service of the Civil Service system and setting up a new pay schedule.

Clark ruled that the recent pay increase proposed by the commissioners and any future general salary increase for classified employees of the county can only be affected through upward adjustment of the salary schedules in the rules and regulations of the Civil Service system.

Salary increases for individual employees of the classified service cannot be justified, except through amendment of the rules and regulations by upgrading the salary grade allocated and classification to which the individual belongs. If there is more than one employee in that classification and all employees therein shall receive the same benefits, Clark said.

"It is the intention of the classified service to provide uniform salary increases, prevent discrimination based upon political affiliation and personality, and to affect the changes other than through orderly processes."

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners acted yesterday on the salary increase requests for several county departments which are not covered by the Civil Service system.

A $200 annual increase was granted to the stenographer, county investigator and assistant to State's Attorney James S. Getty. Commissioner William A. Wilson made a motion to grant the increase and it was seconded by Commissioner John J. Rowan. Commissioner John Tucker Mason opposed the motion.

The Board of Election Supervisors were notified that the request for a $200 increase to the two registrars and stenographer in that agency will be approved, provided the money to take care of the increases was in the budget of the Election Board.

County GOP Heads Predict Victory In Fall Election

Three of Allegany County's Republican leaders expressed their confidence that the party will win the fall election. Hughes added, "that the Democrats feel conservatism at the national level is not such a bad thing after all."

Hughes said it was his opinion that the party is trying to appease all sections of the country by adding Johnson to the ticket. Naming a man from the South, he said, adding, he did not believe the South will be any more in favor of the Democrats in November just because Johnson was added to the ticket.

James S. Getty, chairman of the GOP State Central Committee of Allegany County and states attorney, said he believes the Democrats "strengthened the ticket with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as the vice presidential candidate, but the ticket would have been stronger if reversed."

By that he meant the ticket would have been stronger if Johnson were the presidential nominee and Sen. John F. Kennedy the vice presidential nominee.

"However, I think Nixon will defeat Kennedy," Getty added. William M. Wilson, Republican member of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, also expressed the opinion that "Nixon can beat them."

He said from what he could gather, there was some controversy over the selection and a question as to whether some Democrats approved the selection. Wilson said he believed the world situation will be the largest single factor in the November election and that Nixon's experience in that field will "put him across."

George R. Hughes Jr., former Republican member of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly, said "The ticket of Kennedy and Johnson is about as conservative as any they could have come up with, with the possible exception of a Johnson-Kennedy ticket."

"This may be an indication."

Stocks Finish In Broad Scramble Of Price Shifts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks finished in a broad scramble of minor price changes Friday in some of the slowest trading since Oct. 12, 1959.

A few high flyers dotted the list, but these were the exception rather than the rule.

Brokers said that in a thin market it takes only a limited amount of buying and selling to bring about some fairly wide price swings.

Industrials declined on average although the tally of stocks advanced showed that more issues traded than declined. Turnover on the day amounted to 2,140,000 shares, matching the figure for March 17, which in itself was the lowest since last Oct. 12.

Friday's performance was the least spectacular of the week. The market fell sharply on Monday and Tuesday, dipped moderately on Wednesday and made virtually no change on Thursday.

The rails, which have been hard hit in recent declines, snapped back Friday with a gain on average to 138.89 up 0.45. The group improved on gains of 2 1/2 in Great Northern, 1/2 in Louisville and Nashville, and 1/2 in Delaware & Hudson.

Industrials closed at 830.24 off 1.08 in their average. Du Pont led the blue chips lower with a loss of 2 1/4 to 20 1/4. Alcoa and Union Carbide were off more than 1 each, while Westinghouse rose 1 1/4 and General Foods a point.

The aircrafts lost some altitude after outperforming the market most of the week. Chance Vought, which expects lower earnings this year, dropped 1 1/2. Boeing gave up 1/2 and Douglas 3/4.

Oils, long in a sold out position, held up well in the late selling. Standard Oil of Ohio added 1 1/4 and Amerasia a point. Drugs showed gains of nearly 2 in American Home Products, more than 1 in Upjohn and Bristol Myers, and 1/2 in Vick Chemical.

Electronics were also trimmed from their best levels in late selling. Motorola and IBM gave up a point or more, while Varian closed up 1 1/2 up more than two at its best.

Stocks climbed irregularly higher in continued light dealings on the American Exchange with electronics leading the way.

Economic Study Of Area Planned By State Unit

Hubley Has Warm Praise For CIDC

Plans to begin an economic inventory of Cumberland early in August were revealed here last night by George W. Hubley Jr., director of Maryland's Department of Economic Development.

Mr. Hubley made the announcement at an informal meeting with officials of the Cumberland Industrial Development Company.

He said the department plans to publish an authoritative inventory showing the economic characteristics of each community in Maryland, and that the Cumberland survey will be the pilot project.

The inventory, he said, will include everything a potential investor needs to know before he would even consider Cumberland as a location for his enterprise.

It will include, he added, all of the basic information needed, including such data as population, labor force and costs, educational and hospital facilities, transportation, government and the costs of all the basic needs of industry.

Hails PPG Plant
He said that as the first director of the new department, he is looking to the western part of the state for inspiration, guidance and challenges.

Acquisition of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant, he said, is the most spectacular of Cumberland's accomplishments to date, adding "there are two or three other projects currently on the fire, which could mean almost as much to this Cumberland area."

He said the Department of Economic Development considers itself a clearing house and that the efforts of local organizations such as the Cumberland Development Company are the most important.

The final decision of a company to choose this or that locality, he said, depends on the effectiveness of the effort made by local citizens.

Cites Three I's
The job of the state agency, he said, will be the three "I's"—Imagination, Information, and Inspiration.

The community which speaks in the most concrete terms, he said, has the best chance of capturing the industrial prospect.

He said a solution to the problems of the Appalachian region cannot be found "until we stop thinking of the mountains as a 'distress area' and begin to think of them as an underdeveloped region with vast untapped human and natural resources."

Referring to the recent Appalachian Conference in Annapolis, he said he hopes the "States of the Appalachian region will be able to form a group that can speak with a powerful voice, not only to the halls of Congress, but the conscience of the country."

An outgrowth of the Appalachian Conference, he said, was a preliminary study of Western Maryland counties.

Among the findings, he said, was the fact that Allegheny County has been able to cut unemployment to less than half the 1950 level. In 1959 unemployment had fallen to 4,500 workers, representing 10 per cent of the labor force.

Needs Industry
He said the survey established

George Lester Beeman, 39, of 605 Virginia Avenue, yesterday was ordered held for action of the Allegheny County Grand Jury on a charge of attempted burglary.

Beeman was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court before Magistrate Paul W. Barnett who ordered Beeman held in the County Jail in default of $500 bond.

State Troopers Thomas E. Ruppert, Richard J. Graham and R. J. Chabot arrested Beeman early Thursday morning while he was attempting to break into Ruffo's Tavern in Mt. Savage.

SRC Says Homes Lacked Repairs At Purchase

Buildings the State Roads Commission acquired in Cumberland were in the present state of repairs when purchased, John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer, informed Mayor J. Edwin Keech this week.

Mr. Bushby's statement was made in reply to a letter from Mayor Keech, which urged that the SRC have all untenable buildings it has purchased here torn down at once.

The SRC official said he was not aware of the 20 buildings referred to that are creating an eyesore.

He said the SRC has five buildings on the south side of Wineow Street which are being razed under contract.

The SRC, he said, is not satisfied with the contractor's performance and has notified him he must proceed with the demolition more rapidly and that he will forfeit his performance bond if the work is not completed on time, adding:

"With regard to your statement about the city taking action against taxpayers and condemning sub-standard housing and being embarrassed because the State Roads Commission has purchased properties which are in worse condition than those owned by taxpayers, I can only point out that the buildings the State Roads Commission has acquired were in their present state of repairs when we purchased them, and it is my recommendation to our Right-of-Way Engineer that no further structures of this type be purchased until the land is required for construction purposes."

He said he regretted the embarrassment and inconvenience that the structures may have caused and assured that the SRC "is making every effort to remove all undesirable structures we now own" that are located within the city limits.

Young Escapee To Get Hearing In Court Here

City Police Nab Three Boys

A 16-year-old local youth, arrested here early yesterday morning, will be given a hearing next week in Allegany County Circuit Court for escaping from the Maryland Training School for Boys in May.

The youth, Jack Wallace, of 109 Polk Street, was one of three youths arrested by City Police for investigation when the youths were stopped in a car about 4:45 a.m. yesterday.

Juvenile Magistrate Louis A. Fackin waived jurisdiction in the case and the Wallace youth is being held in the County Jail to await action of the Circuit Court.

The other youths arrested by City Police were given suspended sentences at a hearing yesterday in Juvenile Court before Magistrate Fackin.

Magistrate Fackin found James R. Markley, 18, of 439 Homer Street, guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and gave him a six-month suspended sentence in the House of Correction. Markley also was placed on probation for two years.

A 17-year-old Ridgeley youth was found guilty of being a delinquent minor and was given a suspended sentence to the Training School for Boys. He also was placed on parole until he is 21.

Police first believed the car which the 17-year-old Ridgeley youth was driving was stolen, but they later learned it belonged to Mrs. Reba Wallace, the mother of the Wallace youth.

The Ridgeley youth originally said the car was owned by a relative of his and that he had siphoned gasoline from a piece of equipment at a construction site. He said he then picked up the other two boys and they went "joy riding."

Juvenile Court authorities said the Wallace youth was sentenced to the Maryland Training School last October 30.

Man'slaught Charge Faces Oldfields Man

Wilson C. Zirk, about 45, of Oldfields, W. Va., located about seven miles north of Moorefield, yesterday was charged with manslaughter in the death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33-year-old Stephens City, Va. salesman, who was found dead in his parked car early Thursday morning in the southern end of Moorefield.

Trooper Jack Baker of the West Virginia State Police, who found the man's body, filed the complaint against Zirk, who appeared yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace William J. Teets at Moorefield.

Zirk waived the preliminary hearing and was released under $2,500 bond pending action of the October term of the grand jury of Hardy County. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Trooper Baker and Assistant Police Chief Dixie Shoemaker of Moorefield and taken before the Justice of the peace.

Loss Of Blood

Thursday night a coroner's jury ruled the death of the man was due to the loss of blood from cuts on his right arm inflicted by a person or persons unknown.

It was indicated the right arm of the man had been pushed back and forth in a sawing motion over the broken glass of the left front window of his 1952 model car.

Authorities said it appeared as if the window had been broken from the outside as glass was found on the front seat of the car.

Lewis S. Moomau, Hardy County prosecuting attorney, said Ritter died at 4:50 a.m. Thursday about 15 or 20 minutes following a fight with a man identified as Zirk, who was questioned in the case and later arrested.

Horn Blew

Prior to the finding of the man's body, neighbors had heard his auto horn blow. Mr. Teets said that after Trooper Baker arrived on the scene and saw the man's arm he started to use a tourniquet but the man had "bled to death."

The coroner's jury declared that "it appears that the cuts and the lacerations on his right arm were caused by the arm being in continuous contact with the shattered glass window on the left front door of the auto."

"It appears from the evidence that Ritter immediately prior to his death had a fight at Rexroad's Welding Shop with Wilson C. Zirk who is an electrician by trade."

"This fight started inside the shop and from the testimony continued on to the outside. Parts of the broken glass from Ritter's auto window were found in front of Rexroad's (about half mile from the point where the body was found)."

"It appears that the wounds were not self-inflicted, but rather inflicted by a party or parties unknown," the jury concluded.

Unknown said Zirk was questioned Thursday along with several other persons.
